

MONTENZUMA

Heritage Museum

2025 Annual Report

From the Director

This past year marked a season of growth and transition for the Montezuma Heritage Museum. Building on the dedication of the many people who made the museum possible, we expanded our community impact in meaningful ways. In 2025, we presented an exciting lineup of public programs and short-term exhibitions that doubled program attendance, welcomed more local students through field trips, and refreshed our branding with a new logo, rack card, and mission-focused video. None of this would have been possible without your support, and it has been an honor to help carry your vision forward.

Elizabeth Quinn MacMillan, Executive Director

Mission

Our mission is to educate, enrich and inspire our residents and visitors through the preservation, presentation and interpretation of the county's and region's rich and diverse history.

Voices from the Past

This reader's theater performance, developed from oral histories, memoirs, and letters from the museum's archives, was inspired by a 1920s poem, In Memory of Pioneers, by early Yellow Jacket homesteader Augustus "Gus" Stevenson.

Across the Navajo Desert: Theodore Roosevelt's 1913 Expedition to the Rainbow Natural Bridge

Historian and Wetherill descendant, Harvey Leake, discussed Theodore Roosevelt's 1913 expedition to the natural bridges of San Juan County, Utah, led by well-known guide, John Wetherill.

History Revealed: The CCC in Cortez

Ryan Spittler, shared his research into Civilian Conservation Corps. Camp SCS-14-C.

Quilted Stories: Past & Present

Local quilt expert, Patricia Joy, shared her quilt collections, connecting quilts to various times in history and our personal stories.

Block Party!: A Hands-on Quilt Making Program

Amy Cao led this hands-on program with participants decorating their own quilt squares connecting art and history.

Penitente Shepherds & The Signs They Left Behind

Pete Montaño shared his family's unique history as Penitente shepherds in Southwest Colorado.

Tell Our Stories

Programs & Exhibits

In 2025, an 81321 Grant also funded a run of temporary exhibits, including Quilted Stories, which featured quilts from the permanent collections, and Native Scenes, Native Stories, showcasing Diné artists Keith Smith and Ed Singer.

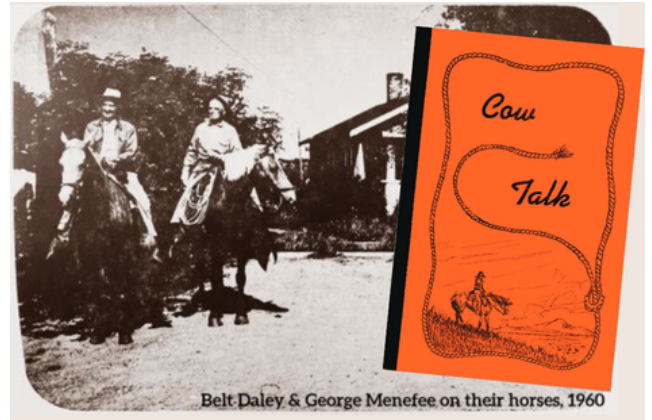

Free public events, including exhibit openings, lectures, and artist demonstrations, accompanied the exhibits.

Tell Our Stories Continued...

Thanks to support from the Ballantine Family Fund, the museum was able to work with the Reddert-Brown family to reprint Cow Talk: The Memoirs of George W. Menefee, a great history of ranching in the early Mancos Valley. The new edition includes a new foreword by author Lottie Reddert's son, Ryan Brown.

Copies are for sale in the museum store for $16.99.

Save Our History

Collections Care & Management

The museum continues to receive collections donations, which serve as the foundation of our work. Collections help us tell stories in exhibits, support research, and serve as learning tools for area students.

This year, the Kent family donated two paintings by local artist Richard Ellis Wagner. The paintings, collected by Delmer and Gloria Kent, portray the Battlerock and Lebanon schoolhouses. This donation will be perfect for the planned exhibit, Schools for the Children.

Every donation requires thoughtful care and ongoing management. We are fortunate to have Joyce Lawrence and Tulli Kerstetter overseeing this work with dedication and expertise. This year, the museum also received a $4,000 grant from the Greenwood Fund to support upgrades to the June Head Research Library and archives collections. These funds will allow us to improve archival storage and organization, strengthening our ability to preserve and provide access to historic photographs, documents, textiles, and other materials for researchers and the community well into the future.

Passing On Our Legacy

Educational Outreach

School Visits

In 2025, the Montezuma Heritage Museum reached more than 300 area students through school visits, youth group tours, and other educational initiatives. Elementary, middle, and high school students participated in guided tours, hands-on activities, and curriculum-connected experiences that deepened their understanding of local history and culture through the museum's exhibitions.

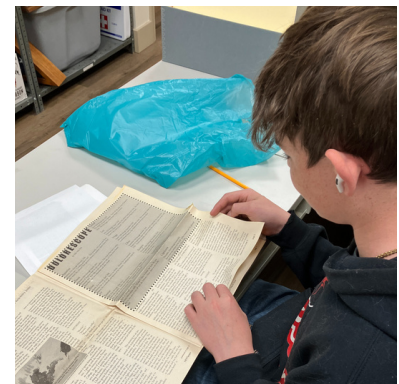

The museum continues to expand and refine its field trip offerings, educational activities, and outreach materials. With support from the El Pomar Foundation, we were also able to continue to offer free admission and help offset transportation costs, ensuring greater access for schools throughout the region.

Special thanks to Terri Helm and Tom Hayden for generously donating their time and expertise in support of these programs.

Teen Team

The museum also piloted its Teen Team program with support from the El Pomar Foundation. This new initiative brought together a small group of local high school students for hands-on, behind-the-scenes museum experiences. During a four-week summer intensive, participants worked alongside museum staff to rehouse collections, develop oral history inventories, and assist with other collections and research projects.

Similar programs have shown lasting benefits for participants, including stronger connections to their community, experiential learning and professional development opportunities, and a long-term appreciation for—and affiliation with—cultural institutions.

Honoring Our Past, Celebrating Our Impact

The Montezuma Heritage Museum was proud to receive a Caroline Bancroft History Project Award from History Colorado for Ute Mountain Ute: We Are Still Here, created in close partnership with the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe. The award recognizes not just the exhibit itself, but the collaboration and conversations that shaped it. Working alongside tribal members ensured that the exhibit highlights Ute voices and reflects both history and a living culture. We are grateful for the trust and generosity of the Ute Mountain Ute Tribe and honored to see this shared work recognized across Colorado.

This year, the museum recognized the Montezuma County officials who played a vital role in making the museum a reality. At our annual luncheon in November, we unveiled a permanent plaque to honor former commissioners Keenan Ertel, James Lambert, and Larry Don Suckla, as well as former County Administrator Melissa Brunner, for their leadership in securing the museum building in 2019 and helping bring this community-driven project to life.

The plaque now hangs outside the museum for all visitors to see.

This year, we also recognized Ann Wilson Brown for her dedication, hard work, and leadership, all of which were instrumental in bringing the Montezuma Heritage Museum to life.

The museum lost several key supporters this year, including Vivienne Kenyon and Charles Grasse.

Financials

The Montezuma County Historical Society d.b.a. the Montezuma Heritage Museum is a non-profit Colorado corporation governed by a Board of Trustees. The museum relies on admission and membership fees, individual and business donations, foundation and agency grants, and a modest endowment to fund a professional staff, exhibits, public programs, and collections care.
